

08

Powers and position of the British

09

Monarch Part - 1

10

One of the salient features of the British Constitution is the great divergence between constitutional forms and the actualities of government. The position of the king is the most striking example of this divergence. In theory the king is an absolute monarch, but in reality the powers are exercised by the Crown which is an institution. Following are the powers and position of the king:

11

12

13

14

15

(1) Executive Powers -

17

18

19

20

21

(2) Legislative Powers -

22

23

AUGUST
2009

S

S

M

T

W

T

F

S

S

M

T

W

T

F

S

S

M

T

W

T

F

S

S

M

T

W

T

F

S

S

M

T

W

1

2

3

4

5

6

7

8

9

10

11

12

13

14

15

16

17

18

19

20

21

22

23

24

25

26

27

28

29

30

31

