

08 Agencies for the formation and expression
09 of public opinion - III

10 (6) Educational Institutions -

11 The views of 12 the students are formed in educational
13 institutions. Usually, the students adopt
14 the views of their teachers. Subjects
15 like Economics, Civics, Political Science,
16 History etc. are taught which help
17 in the formation of political views.
18 There are many study circles
19 and associations which arrange
20 lectures of many educated persons.
21 These lectures help a lot in the 22 formation of public opinion.

23 (7) Election -

24 Election is also a good
25 means for expressing public opinion.
26 Each party tries to place before the 27 people its ideology and programme.
28 It helps in the formation of 29 public opinion. The people vote
30 for the party whose programmes
31 and policies impress them.

32 (8) Religious Association -

33 Religion has a
34 great impact on policies. If religion
35 means morality, its effects shall
36 be useful, but many a time, parties
37 use them as propaganda.
